Our scholarships with The Ivey Business School Asia are part of a wider initiative at The Women's Foundation to provide women and girls with opportunities to further their education and hone their leadership skills. This year, thanks to your generous support, we are in the happy position of enabling more transformational learning and leadership opportunities than ever before, including:

* Supporting a Hong Kong graduate student to pursue the MPhil in Multi-disciplinary Gender Studies at the University of Cambridge for the second year running. We are happy to announce that this year's recipient of The Women's Foundation Scholarship Award is Ching Lok Tse. He will be following in the footsteps of last year's recipient, Mandy Leung, who will complete her studies at Cambridge this summer.

* Partnering with the Australia and New Zealand Banking Group (ANZ) and Hong Kong University of Science and Technology to establish the TWF ANZ Women in Science and Engineering (WISE) Scholarships to encourage more female students to pursue science, technology and engineering subjects. This year's scholarship was awarded to Iris Leung, a first year undergraduate at HKUST.

* Supporting female students to pursue a Masters in a logistics and/or transport related programme accredited by the Chartered Institute for Logistics and Transport in Hong Kong. This year's awardees are Choi Yan Ho and Vanessa Lau, both candidates for the Master of Arts degree in Transport Policy and Planning at the University of Hong Kong.

We wish all our awardees the very best and we hope they will be inspired by their studies to serve as future role models, sponsors and mentors to women looking to follow in their footsteps.

Warm regards
